(UNOFFICIAL CLEAR TEXT)

I. GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBJECT MATTER OF THE ACT

Article 1

- (1) This Act regulates the manner of acquisition, the system of protection and the exercise of the right to use a geographical indication and a designation of origin of products and services.
- (2) The provisions of this Act shall not apply to products and services in such part in which the system of protection and the exercise of rights to use a geographical indication and a designation of origin are governed by special regulations.

GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATION

Article 2

- (1) Geographical indication is the name of a region, a specific place or, in exceptional cases, of a country, used to describe products or services originating in that region, place or country, and possessing a specific quality, reputation or other characteristic attributable to that geographical origin and the production and/or processing and/or preparation of which take place in the specific geographical area.
- (2) Any other indication identifying a product or a service originating in a certain geographical area shall be a geographical indication, if it fulfils the requirements referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article.

DESIGNATION OF ORIGIN

- (1) Designation of origin shall be the name of a region, a specific place or, in exceptional cases, a country, used to indicate products or services originating in that region, the specific place or the country, and the quality or characteristics of which are essentially or exclusively due to a particular geographical environment with its inherent natural and human factors, and the production, processing and preparation of which entirely take place in that specific geographical area.
- (2) Designation of origin shall also be considered a name, which is not the administrative geographical name of a specific country, of a region or a place and which, due to its long-term use in trade, has become the common name of a product originating in that area, if it fulfils the requirements referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article.

TRADITIONAL NAMES

Article 4

Traditional geographical or non-geographical names used to identify a product or a service originating in a region or a specific place may be registered as designations of origin, where such a product or service fulfils the requirements provided for under Articles 3 and 5 of this Act.

ORIGIN OF RAW MATERIALS

Article 5

In exceptional cases, a product may be protected by a designation of origin where the designation has an established traditional characteristic, exceptional reputation and well known, where the raw materials for the production of this product originate from a region wider than or different from the processing area, provided that the production area of the raw materials is limited, that special conditions for the production of the raw materials exist, and that the system of inspection exists to ensure that those conditions are adhered to.

FORM

Article 6

- (1) A geographical indication and a designation of origin may be in a verbal form, and a geographical indication of origin may as well be in a figurative form.
- (2) A geographical indication and a designation of origin in verbal form may contain one word or a group of words corresponding to the name of a specific geographical area, including it or referring to it.
- (3) A geographical indication in a figurative form may be a cartographic representation or any other symbolic representation indicating that a product or a service originates in a specific geographical area.

EXCLUSION FROM PROTECTION

Article 7

A geographical indication and a designation of origin may not grant protection to the name of the place of origin of a product or a service:

1. if it creates confusion in the public as to the geographical origin of products or services;
2. if it suggests that the relevant product or service originates in a geographical area other than the true place of origin in a manner misleading the public as to the geographical origin thereof;
3. if it may, by its appearance or contents create confusion in trade in respect of the kind, origin, quality, manner of production or other characteristics of the products or services;
4. if it has, due to its long-term use in everyday speech, lost its geographical meaning and has become a generic name;
5. if it is identical with the name of a plant variety or an animal breed, where it would mislead the public as to the geographical origin of a product or a service;
6. if it is contrary to public order and morality;
7. if it has not been protected or is no longer protected, or has fallen into disuse in the country of origin.

GENERIC NAMES

Article 8

- (1) A generic name means the name of a product or a service, which has become a common name of that product or service, although it relates to the place where the product or service was originally produced or put on the market.
- (2) The name of the place of origin protected by a geographical indication may not become a generic name during the period of protection defined by this Act.
- (3) To establish whether or not a name has become generic pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Article account shall be taken of all the factors, in particular the existing situation in the geographical area in which that name originated and in the areas of consumption of the product.

HOMONYMS

Article 9

- (1) Where the names of two or more places of origin of products or services are identical or almost identical in writing (homonyms), the protection of such names by a geographical indication or a designation of origin shall be granted to all the interested parties complying with the requirements provided for by this Act, and in the manner provided for by the Regulations on geographical indications and designations of origin of products and services governing the implementation of this Act (hereinafter referred to as: the Regulations), in accordance with the principles of equitable treatment of producers on the market, truthful informing of consumers, and doing business in good faith.
- (2) The user of a homonym shall provide sufficient information on the label or packaging material regarding the true origin of the product, so as to differentiate one homonym from another, and not to mislead the public.

DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN PERSONS

Article 10

- (1) The rights and obligations provided under this Act shall refer to domestic legal and natural persons, and to foreign legal and natural persons, with hereby provided limitations for foreign persons.
- (2) Foreign persons may apply for protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin and the entry of authorised users, if they have been granted such rights in the country of origin and if they comply with the requirements defined in this Act.
- (3) The term “country of origin” for the purpose of this Act shall cover likewise the regional system under which the registration of a geographical indication and a designation of origin have been carried out for products originating in the territory of one or several Member States.
- (4) A foreign person may use the rights referred to in paragraph (2) of this Article when emanating from bilateral or international treaties on mutual protection of geographical indications that the Republic of Croatia has concluded or ratified.

II. GRANTING PROCEDURE

COMMON PROVISIONS

Article 11

- (1) The State Intellectual Property Office (hereinafter: the Office) shall carry out the administrative proceedings for the registration of geographical indications and designations of origin of products and services and the proceedings for their invalidation, and shall perform other administrative and professional tasks concerning the protection of geographical indications and designations of origin of products and services.
- (2) The administrative decisions issued by the Office in the first instance may be appealed and the appeals shall be decided on by the Board of Appeal in accordance with the provisions of this Act. The filing of an appeal shall be subject to payment of the administrative fee and procedural charges in accordance with special regulations. If the administrative fee and procedural charges are not paid timely, the appeal shall be considered as not filed.
- (3) The decisions rendered by the Board of Appeal in the second instance may be challenged in the administrative dispute according to the Administrative Dispute Act.

MANNER OF GRANTING PROTECTION

Article 12

- (1) The protection of the name or other indication of the place of origin of products or services by a geographical indication shall be established by the entry in the Register of geographical indications.
- (2) The protection of the name of the place of origin of products or services by a designation of origin shall be established by the entry in the Register of designations of origin.

PERSONS ENTITLED TO FILE AN APPLICATION

Article 13

The following shall have the right to file an application for the entry of a geographical indication or a designation of origin into the register:

1. Association of producers and/or processors of a specific product or providers of services, irrespective of the legal status thereof;
2. Individual producer and/or processor, irrespective of whether a natural person or a legal person, only in the case:
 - where he is, at the time of filing of such an application, the sole producer or processor of the product or provider of the service in respect of which he is applying for the registration of a geographical indication or a designation of origin,
 - where he is the only one to use original and unchangeable local procedures, and
 - where a geographical area has characteristics which significantly differ from the characteristics of neighbouring areas and/or where characteristics of products differ;
3. Bodies of local and regional self-government, chambers and institutions interested in the protection of geographical indications or designations of origin within the scope and territory of their activities.

REPRESENTATION OF FOREIGN PERSONS

Article 14

- (1) Foreign legal and natural persons not having a principal place of business, a domicile or a habitual residence on the territory of the Republic of Croatia may initiate actions before the Office solely through authorised agents entered in the specific register with the Office.
- (2) The provision of paragraph (1) of this Article shall apply also to the nationals of the Republic of Croatia not having a domicile or a habitual residence on the territory of the Republic of Croatia.

RIGHT OF USE

HOLDERS OF THE RIGHT OF USE

Article 15

Persons complying with all the requirements provided for under this Act and who have been entered in the relevant Register of users may use a protected geographical indication or a protected designation of origin.

PROTECTION OF GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS AND DESIGNATIONS OF ORIGIN

Article 16

- (1) Registered geographical indications and designations of origin shall be protected against:

1. The use by a person not performing the required activity and who has not been entered in the relevant register;
 2. Any use to identify products and services the quality, reputation or any other characteristic of which is of a lower quality than that entered in the register in respect of the protected indication;
 3. Any use to identify products or services which are not covered by the registration, but which are of the same kind as the products and services covered by the registration;
 4. Any use of false or misleading information as regards the geographical origin, nature or quality of a product or a service on the packaging, advertising materials, or other documents, suggesting a relation between the product or service and the protected name;
 5. Any use, though entirely authentic as regards the name of the territory, region or place in which a product or a service originates, misleading the public that the product or the service originate from another area;
 6. Any use of translation or transliteration, even where a true origin of products or services is indicated, and any use of the protected name, which is accompanied by a term: “style”, “type”, “manner”, “according to process”, “method”, “produced in”, “imitation”, and the like;
 7. Any other practice liable to mislead the public as to the geographical origin of a product or a service.
- (2) The prohibition referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article shall not apply to the use of the name being a part of a company’s name, except where such name is used with the aim to mislead the public.

RELATION TO TRADEMARKS

Article 17

- (1) A trademark for which an application has been filed or it has been registered or used in good faith before the filing of a request for the entry of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, and which is used to identify products and services identical with or of the same kind as a protected geographical indication or a designation of origin may continue its use, and shall not be invalidated for containing a geographical indication in its name.
- (2) A trademark consisting of or containing a geographical indication or a designation of origin, and applying to products or services not originating from the indicated area, shall be invalidated, if the use of such indications is liable to mislead the public as to the true origin of a product or a service.
- (3) The invalidation procedure shall be instituted ex officio, or at a request of an interested person.

INDICATION OF THE RIGHT OF USE

Article 18

4. A signature of the applicant, or his representative or the authorised person.

IV. PROCEDURE FOR EXAMINATION OF AN APPLICATION

FORMAL EXAMINATION

Article 27

- (1) The Office shall carry out formal examination of the correctness of the filed application in order to establish whether the requirements, provided for in Articles 21 to 26 of this Act have been complied with.
- (2) If the Office establishes that the application is not correct, it shall deliver to the applicant the examination results containing reasons owing to which the application may not be considered correct, and order him by a conclusion to remedy the deficiencies within the time limit of 30 days.
- (3) At a reasoned request of the applicant, the Office may extend the time limit referred to in paragraph (2) of this Article, which shall not exceed six months as from the first conclusion to correct.
- (4) If the applicant fails to remedy the application or fails to pay the prescribed fee and charges within the provided time limit, the Office shall issue a decision on the rejection of the application for the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, or the application for the entry of the right of use of a geographical indication or a designation of origin.

SUBSTANTIVE EXAMINATION

Article 28

- (1) After formal examination of the filed application referred to in Article 21 or 25 of this Act has been concluded, and if the application is correct, the Office shall carry out substantive examination of the filed application.
- (2) If established that the application does not comply with the necessary requirements, the Office shall deliver to the applicant the examination results with the reasons owing to which the protection of the geographical indication or the designation of origin shall not be granted, or the right of use thereof shall not be granted, and shall invite him to file observations on these reasons within a specific time limit.
- (3) At a reasoned request of the applicant, the Office may extend the time limit referred to in paragraph (2) of this Article, which shall not exceed six months as from the invitation to make observations.
- (4) If the applicant makes no observation at all or if he does, and the Office considers that a geographical indication or a designation of origin as applied for shall not be protected, or that a specific person shall not be granted the right of use, the Office shall refuse a request for the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, or a request for the grant of the right of use of a geographical indication, or a designation of origin.
- (5) If the Office establishes in the procedure carried out that the application for the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin complies with the formal and substantive granting requirements it shall publish the application and thus make it available to public.

PUBLICATION OF AN APPLICATION

Article 29

- (1) An application for the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin shall be published in the official gazette of the Office.
- (2) The contents of information contained in the application to be published shall be provided for by the Regulations.

OPPOSITION

OPPOSITION PROCEDURE

Article 30

- (1) Any interested person having its principle place of business or domicile in the territory of the Republic of Croatia may file, within a prescribed time limit, an opposition to the published application for a geographical indication or a designation of origin, if he/she considers that it does not comply with the requirements provided for by this Act.
- (2) The owner of a trade name or a registered trademark may file, within the prescribed time limit, an opposition to the published application of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, if it is in its entirety or in part identical with that trade name registered in good faith and if its protection would jeopardise the right of that trade name or trademark, having regard to the actual likelihood of confusion.
- (3) The right of opposition shall pertain to the owner of a trademark having acquired special reputation and well known through prior continuous use, if the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, may mislead the consumer as to the true origin of the product.
- (4) The opposition to the acquisition of the right of use shall not be filed.
- (5) The opposition shall be filed with the Office within three months from the date of publication of the application in the official gazette of the Office, and shall contain the relevant evidence proving that the geographical indication or designation of origin applied for shall not be protected under this Act.
- (6) If the Office establishes that the opposition does not comply with the formal requirements referred to in this Article, because the opponent did not file the opposition within the prescribed time limit, or has not submitted any of the required evidence, it shall issue a decision on the rejection of the opposition and shall inform the applicant and the opponent thereof.
- (7) If the Office establishes that the opposition is in compliance with the necessary formal requirements, it shall continue with the opposition procedure.

EXAMINATION OF THE OPPOSITION

Article 31

- (1) The Office shall deliver the opposition supported with evidence to the applicant for the entry of a geographical indication or a designation of origin in the register, and shall invite him to give his observations regarding allegations in the opposition and supporting evidence, within the time limit of 30 days as from the date of the delivery thereof.
- (2) At a request of the applicant, who shall prove that the request is justified, the Office may extend the time limit for not more than another 30 days.
- (3) If the applicant fails to submit his observations on the opposition within the prescribed time limit, the Office shall refuse the application for the entry of a geographical indication or a designation of origin in the register.

- (4) Upon the receipt of the observations on the opposition, the Office shall examine whether it is justified.
- (5) If established necessary for issuing a decision on the opposition, the Office may consult a relevant institution or an individual expert, on open issues addressed in the opposition.
- (6) If the Office finds the opposition unjustified, the opposition shall be refused, and a decision to that effect shall be delivered to the opponent, and to the applicant.
- (7) If the Office establishes in the opposition examination procedure that the opposition is justified, it shall refuse the application for a geographical indication or a designation of origin, and notify the decision to that effect to the opponent and to the applicant.

V. ENTRY IN REGISTER AND THE RIGHTS EMANATING THEREFROM

ENTRY IN THE REGISTER OF GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS AND DESIGNATIONS OF ORIGIN

Article 32

- (1) If the application for a geographical indication or a designation of origin complies with all the requirements, and if no opposition has been filed or the opposition has been refused or rejected, the Office shall issue a decision on the protection of a geographical indication or a designation of origin, and shall enter the protected geographical indication in the Register of Geographical Indications, and the protected designation of origin in the Register of Designations of Origin.
- (2) If the application for the entry of the right of use of a geographical indication or a designation of origin complies with the prescribed requirements, the Office shall order the applicant by a conclusion to pay the prescribed fee and charges for the first ten years of use of the indication and to pay charges for the publication of information concerning the right of use, and to provide evidence on the effected payments.
- (3) If the applicant fails to pay the prescribed fee and charges within the fixed time limit, and fails to provide evidence on the effected payment, the Office shall reject the application for the entry of the right of use of a geographical indication or a designation of origin.

ENTRY IN THE REGISTER OF AUTHORISED USERS
